Description

M.S. Degree: Core Areas of Study

The Core Areas of Study has two foci: Child Development and Adolescent Development. Students in the Core Areas of Study Program may elect one of two options to complete their master’s degree: Thesis or Comprehensive Examination. Both programs prepare students to work in a variety of human service positions and enter doctoral programs. Please visit the Career Opportunities section of our website for more information.

Child Development: This core area of study is designed to develop an understanding of theory and research regarding children from infancy through the early school years and to prepare students to work in a variety of positions focused on children’s family and school experiences. Students are expected to complete a practicum in a child-focused setting.

Adolescent Development: This core area of study is designed to develop general competence in understanding and applying theory and research regarding adolescence through early adulthood within the context of families and communities. Students are expected to complete a practicum in a program that serves adolescents.

1. Students will design a program of study from HDFS and other departments graduate courses

2. Students electing to complete a research thesis must write and defend a thesis based on original research. Students must earn a minimum of 6 credits of HDFS 899 Master's Thesis.

Grade Policy

A graduate student who fails a course must immediately attend a mandatory meeting with the instructor of the course, the Human Development and Family Studies Graduate Coordinator, and, if desired, the student's adviser. If a graduate student receives grades below "B−" in two or more courses, the Human Development and Family Studies Graduate Coordinator will make a recommendation to the Graduate School that the student be dismissed from the program.

Student Learning Outcomes

Students demonstrate a knowledge of the major models of marriage and family therapy and other systems related theories that support the MFT field. Students will acquire the clinical skills to assess and treat a wide range of problems from a systems paradigm. They will demonstrate an understanding of multicultural diversity, larger systems, and family/individual development across the lifespan. Students will develop ethical principles and practices in the field of marriage and family therapy. They will develop systemic knowledge of marriage and family therapy research, striving toward a theoretically driven and research informed clinical practice.
