<https://law.unh.edu/program/llm/commerce-technology-law>

Description

Supported by UNH Franklin Pierce Law School's strong IP foundation, the Commerce and Technology program is built at the intersection of business and law. The program explores evolving legal issues facing new business and e-commerce in the global information age economy, with a focus on data and privacy law.

Expert faculty tailor courses to current events and developments, and the program offers flexibility to match the career objectives of each individual student. Course work addresses rapidly-developing areas of the law, such as cybercrime and consumers' private information.

This program is available in a full-time, residential format only. Classes begin in August and conclude in May. Many LLM students at UNH Franklin Pierce have a goal to sit for a US bar exam. UNH Franklin Pierce's Commerce and Technology is not designed as preparation program for a US bar exam. However, the programs offer a flexible curriculum that allows students to design a course of study that may afford eligibility to sit for a state bar exam.
