

EQUIVALENT COURSES

Courses are equivalent when the same course content is taught under different course subject prefixes and/or course numbers.

Equivalent courses may be applied interchangeably to satisfy degree requirements, unless otherwise prohibited by program (major, minor, program) specific rules.

The repeated course rule is applicable if a student takes two equivalent courses. Equivalent courses also include courses in the past taught under different subject prefixes, numbers, titles, or a writing intensive or honors course section.