Description

Explore the field of education. If you'd like to develop an understanding of the educational process and tools, the education minor is a great way to combine your interest with your major course of study. You'll learn about the education system and current perspectives in education. In this highly flexible program, you'll choose electives in areas ranging from teaching methods to language and literacy to special education.

A Certification of Completion of Minor form needs to be completed at the beginning of a student's final undergraduate semester at UNH. Forms are available from the Registrar's Office.

Requirements

A minor consists of five courses, twenty (20) credits in Education Department courses.

| Code | Title | Credits |
|-----------------------------------|-------|-----------|
| Select five (5) education courses | | 20 |
| Total Credits | | 20 |

A methods course located in another department may be counted for four (4) of these twenty (20) credits (e.g., ARTS 791 or ARTS 792, ENGL 792, MATH 709, etc.).

No more than eight (8) credits used by the student to satisfy major requirements may be used for the minor.

Courses used in obtaining a minor in special education cannot be used towards a minor in education.

EDUC 500 Exploring Teaching can only be counted once (four credits) towards the minor.

No more than two (2) transferred courses in Education or a closely-related area from another college or university may be used towards a minor in Education. A three-credit (3) course transferred from another school will count for three credits (3) at UNH, not four credits (4).
