¹ Must be completed with a minimum grade of "C" to count towards the major.

² Students may include any advanced-level ENGL courses in which 20% of student assessment/work includes a digital humanities, digital research, or digital production component (even if taken to fulfill literature requirements). ENGL 602 may NOT be double counted for this requirement. Look for the ‘DH’ designation in the course descriptions during registration.

Digital Portfolio: A minimum of six polished projects represented in a digital portfolio started in ENGL 602 and expanded over your career at UNH. A reflective essay will accompany this portfolio. This is a non-credit degree requirement.
English majors may use one major-required course to satisfy one Discovery category requirement.

Student Learning Outcomes

Undergraduate students in the English Department at the University of New Hampshire have many options as they advance to degree. They can choose to complete a general English major or opt to follow one of several specialized tracks: English Literature, Journalism, English Teaching, and Linguistics. I. All undergraduate English majors acquire the same core skills. These include:

• Proficiency in analytical writing, critical thinking, and public-speaking.
• Knowledge of important literary genres and subgenres
• Fluency in literary terminology.
• A broad understanding of British-and-American literature, from the medieval period in England and the moment of first contact in America to the present day.
• Demonstrated proficiency in writing an analytical essay that offers a sophisticated close-reading or explication of a literary text. This essay will have a clear thesis and proceed in a logical fashion, with interpretive claims supported by evidence from the text.
• Demonstrated proficiency in literary research and in writing an extended thesis-driven research paper in which sources are correctly and responsibly cited.
• Demonstrated understanding of how to read across the color line in the US and/or how to analyze literary works written in English from outside the UK and the US—from India, Africa, and the Caribbean, for example.

Notes:

To graduate from UNH, a student must earn a total of 128 credits.

Majors may only count one online course towards their major requirements.

English 403 ‘Exploring Literature’, English 415 ‘Literature and...’ and English 444 classes may NOT be used to satisfy ENGL major or minor requirements.
